Make it rain.
To install Antora, open a terminal and type:

```bash
$ npm i -g @antora/cli@2.2 @antora/site-generator-default@2.2
```

The `@` at the beginning of the package name is important. It tells npm that the `cli` package is located in the `antora` group. If you omit this character, npm will assume the package name is the name of a git repository on GitHub. The second `@` offsets the requested version number.\(^\text{[2]}\) Only the major and minor segments are specified to ensure you receive the latest patch update.

Make it snow.\(^\text{[3]}\)

---

\[1\] money
\[2\] Clarification about this statement.
\[3\] dollar bills